The Republican party is full of broken winded dark horses just now.

On our third page will be found the election table giving the returns of the Democratic primary election. The ticket nominated is a good one in every way and will poll every Democratic vote at the November election. We will refer to the ticket at length at some future time.

The Columbus celebration at the Spanish port of Palos, from which the navigator sailed, will be on August 2 and continue to October 13. The announcement of the opening of the festivities will be made by heralds going about the streets with trumpets and cymbals. The whole celebration will be very picturesque, and as romantic as the Spanish mind.

On Wednesday Hon. Ed. T. McNeelis, of Johnstown, one of the candidates nominated at the late Democratic primary election, telegraphed the following card from Ebensburg, to the Johnstown Herald.

Editor Herald:—Please announce to the Democratic committee of Cambria county my withdrawal as a candidate for Assembly. Thanking my many friends for their kind and earnest support in the late primary election, I remain

Respectfully,
ED. T. McNEELIS.

The withdrawal of Mr. McNeelis will necessitate the calling of the Democratic county committee together for the purpose of filling the vacancy.

The Democratic party carried New York in 1876 and 1884, when there were just as many men going about declaring that Tilden or Cleveland could not carry that state as there are now. When the party has been thoroughly frightened by this sort of talk it has won. The Democrats were comparatively unit in 1888, and failed to win. Cleveland is much stronger in New York than he was in 1884, when we had the same opposition that there is now with the Butler defection in addition.

On Monday afternoon Governor Pattison issued the following proclamation:

WHEREAS, The people of Titusville and Oil City and adjacent portions of the oil regions have been visited by a terrible calamity from water and fire, carrying destruction to life and property, and leaving homeless and destitute hundreds of our fellow citilens:

Now, therefore, I, Robert E. Pattison governor of the said commonwealth, do hereby issue this, my proclamation, recommending to the citizens of Pennsylvania prompt action for the relief of their fellow citizens, and I do further request and direct all citizens, societies, and agencies desiring to aid in this work to put themselves in communication with the authorities of Titusville and Oil City.

The appalling catastrophe in the Oil creek valley is the greatest disaster in this country since the Johnstown flood of three years ago. By a cloud burst above Titusville on Sunday the already swollen small creeks were changed to torrents and by the explosion of a tank of gasoline the oil covered waters were turned into a sea of fire and carried death and devastation with a swiftness that defied human efforts to escape. From Titusville the flood and flames passed on to Oil City where they left a trail of destruction that it will take years to obliterate. Fully one hundred and fifty lives were lost and the loss of property is estimated at nearly $2,000,000,

A Harrisburg dispatch says: Benjamin M. Nead, counsel for the Register and Recorder of Westmoreland county, has entered an appeal in the Dauphin county court from a settlement made by the Auditor General. The appeal raises some very important questions, in which nearly every county officer in the state is interested. Under the law, as interpreted by the Auditor General, every county officer has been compelled to report all fees which he collects, and the state has exacted in each case 50 per cent. of the amount of these fees remaining after deducting necessary clerk hire and office expenses and a salary of $2000 for the office. The appeal in the Westmoreland case attacks the constitutionality of the tax, and if the court shall sustain the position assumed by the defendant in this case it will relieve all county officers from paying this excess of fees into the state treasury.

The Minneapolis convention, says the Pittsburg Post of Thursday, is making slow progress, owing to the delays in determining the great number of contested seats from the South. In committee it is merely a struggle which faction can gain the most, and as the Blaine people have a decided majority on the committee they will gobble everything in sight. It dosn't make much difference as a matter of equity, for contestants and contestees merely stand for shadowy organizations. There is very little right on either side, but the marketable negro votes at issue may determine who shall be the Republican candidate for President, which is not particular pleasant thought for the party of "all the intelligence and virtue."

Governor McKinley was made permanent president of the convention yesterday. He is undoubtedly in the field as a candidate should Blaine or Harrison fail to reach a majority on the first ballot.

The claims of the Blaine and Harrison leaders continue the same—that either one will have a majority of from thirty to fifty on the first ballot. That is pretty close figuring on a total of 900 votes. The wave of odium that attaches to Blaine, because of his resignation and what went before it, seems to be reaching the convention hall, and changes in favor of Harrison are reported in the New York and New England delegations as well as Western delegations. This the Blaine faction stoutly denies. A ballot will hardly be reached before Friday. There has been no test as yet, and there will be none before the balloting, unless it should be made on adopting the report on contested seats. The contests will be decided against the Harrison people, and they may challenge a vote in convention by states on adopting the report. This would indicate something as to the nomination ballot.

The Pension bill, says the Philadelphia Herald, comes back from the Senate with $11,000,000 added to the liberal amount allowed by the House, bringing the total for the next year up to the immense figure of $147,000,000. When in 1878 General Garfield reported a pension bill to the House amounting to $27,000,000, he excused its large proportions, and allayed the apprehension arising from such a formidable disbursement for such a purpose, by saying that it could not get much larger; that perhaps it might reach $35,000,000, after which it would decline. But now we see a pension bill more than five times as large as the one about which Garfield thought it necessary to make excuses, and the probability is that it will increase as time goes on, instead of diminishing. Both political parties are to be blamed for this enormous expenditure, which in time of profound peace fastens upon the taxpayers of the country an expense greater than a standing army of 500,000 imposes upon the German Empire. This pension business has been gotten hold of by politicians and worked for the votes that are in it. It hasn't been so much a love for the veterans or gratitude for the services they rendered that has led to the extension of pensions, but every additional pension bill, enlarging the number interested in this form of government largess, has been a bid for more votes by the party passing it. As this thing is limited only by the desire of party managers to gain votes, there is no telling where it will end.

The Republican convention met on Tuesday and up to this time (Thursday afternoon) has made no nomination. It is evidently the intention of the leaders of the party to defeat the nomination of Harrison, and this they can accomplish by playing a waiting game. The Southern delegates are generally colored citizens who have been appointed to office and are all in favor of Harrison. Former Republican conventions however, have demonstrated the fact that the colored delegates from the South are an impecunious lot and easily purchased.

The longer the convention lasts the harder it will be for President Harrison's friends to hold his southern delegates. The longer the convention lasts the cheaper will be the market and at the end of a week Harrison's southern delegates will be getting uneasy, dead ripe as it were, and will be disposed of in car load lots. When this comes to pass the boodle statesmen will step in and grandfather's hat will be heard of no more. Exit Mr. Harrison.

The Altoona Tribune (Rep) says: The Republicans of Blair county on two occasions this year, speaking through the mouths of their representatives, declared heartily for the renomination of Presi- Harrison. Once they instructed their delegated to the state convention to use all honorable means to secure the election of a state delegation to Minneapolis who would support Mr. Harrison. Yet it appears that H. W. Storey and John R. Scott, who will represent this district will vote steadily against the President, for the reason that they "are friends of Mr. Quay," and are more concerned to gratify him than to obey the wishes of their constituents and promote the good of the country. If we are wrong in this supposition the proper correction will be made with great cheerfulness.

On Saturday Secretary of State James G. Blaine tendered his resignation of the office to his chief, President Harrison, in a short, curt note. President Harrison immediately accepted it in a note just as short and curt, which read between the lines seemed to say "don't care a dern if you do." Mr Blaine has been playing the hypocrite with his chief for the last six months, and the near approach of the Minneapolis convention made it necessary to at last show his hand.

On Tuesday at the meeting of the Minneapolis Republican Convention J. Sloat Fassett, of new York, was elected temporary chairman and on Wednesday Governor William McKinley, of Ohio was selected chairman.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 4, 1892. The Blaine-Harrison rumpus has reached a stage dangerous alike to both of them, and many of the prominent Republicans who have left here for Minneapolis within the last forty-eight hours have expressed themselves as opposite to nominating either Blaine or Harrison. Secretary Foster is much chagrinned at the boomerang effect of the "nigger" document, signed by Fred Douglass, Auditor Lynch, Register Bruce and Congressman Cheatam, which was sent out at his suggestion through one of the press associations early this week for the purpose of injuring Blaine. It is, according to information received here, hurting Harrison more than Blaine. It is among the probabilities that the Grant-Blaine fight may be duplicated at Minneapolis and a dark horse capture the nomination.

The Harrison men are making desperate efforts to get Blaine to announce that he will not accept if nominated, and as an inducement, it is said that Mr. Harrison has offered to nominate his son-in-law, Col. Coppinger, to the vacancy made by the retirement of Brigadier General David S. Stanley, a few days ago. Mr. Blaine has been very anxious to get Col. Coppinger promoted, and one of the late reasons for his late coolness towards Mr. Harrison was his failure to secure the last vacancy for him but he is in the sulks now and the offer may have no effect.

Senator Sherman's to-day speech against the free coinage bill, which the Senate has agreed not to vote upon until after the 14th inst., was an able presentation of the financial question from his point of view, but it will change no votes; indeed, the silver men claim to have made two recruits—Senator Hill and Hunton, of Virginia,—on the day it was finished.

The Republicans of the House sat like deaf mutes when Representative Moses challenged them to show the benefit received by the farmer under the McKinley tariff law, and offered to vote the Republican ticket for the rest of his life if any one could show him that the McKinley act benefited the man who raised a bale of cotton or a bushel of wheat. There was one exception among the Republicans—Mr. Bergen, of New Jersey—but as soon as he opened his mouth he put his foot in it, and that was the last of him. Impossible tasks are not alluring to Republicans or others.

Senator Turpie paid his respects to the administration, yesterday, in a speech criticising the action of the President in issuing retaliatory proclamations against Hayti, Colombia and Venezuela because of their failure to make reciprocity agreements with us.

The House has again run upon the "no quorum" snag, and a resolution revoking all leaves of absence except on account of sickness was adopted early in the week and the Sergeant-at-Arms has run up a big bill telegraphing to absentees. In spite of all this it is not believed that it will be possible to keep a quorum together for two days at a time during the remainder of this month. The cause is evident. This is national convention month. At least half of the Republican members of the House are now at Minneapolis, or on their way there, and when they return, which will not be much before the middle of the month, about the same percentage of Democrats will go to Chicago, remaining away from Washington at least a week. Congressmen are only human, and it is perfectly natural that they should desire to aid in the selection of the national ticket of their party.

A notable feature of the exodus of the Republican Senators and Representatives to Minneapolis is the large number of private cars which have been placed at their disposal by the owners. This shows, as nothing else can, how close the Republican party is to the big corporations of the country. Its costs money, and lots of it, to mainatin and run a private parlor car, and the railroad magnates are not doing it for fun—they expect to be amply repaid for all favors shown to these Republican Congressmen.

Mr. Cleveland's friends in Congress say there is no good reason to suppose that the Syracuse contestants will hurt or help anybody's candidacy at Chicago while senator Hill's friends contend that the Syracuse convention made bolters of Cleveland's friends in that state, and that he is now out of the question as the nominee.

Commissioners Raum's latest attempt at vindication was to submit a long statement to the committee concerning that $12,000 note which Lemom, the pension attorney, endorsed for him, and his administration of the office. The committee declined to admit the statement as evidence until the members had an opportunity to carefully examine it.

There was a rumor this week that Mr. Blaine had resigned and that his resignation had been refused by Mr. Harrison, after a stormy scene.

Corn Bread the German Fad.

CHICAGO, June 7.—J. Murphy, formerly of Omaha, who has been commissioned by the Government to enlighten Europe with regard to the advantages of American corn, writes from Berlin giving some interesting details of progress. In Germany 13 mills have been put in operation grinding corn, and some of them have been working night and day and have been unable to fill their orders. Several other mills in various parts of Germany will soon be erected, the demand for corn is so great.

In Dresden, where the corn mills are in operation, more than half the bakers are selling maize-rye bread, composed of one part maize and two party rye, in which the taste of the maize is not perceived. Even the two mills in the latter city, one of them the largest rye mill in Germany, are baking and selling large quantities of this bread, and the old Government garrison bakery is turning out thousands of loaves daily. The Government is putting in a corn-milling plant in their large mill at Magdeburg, and the Government report on the value of corn as food will soon be published, which is the result of a thorough investigation and practical testing of bread-making at the garrison bakery. Information is that it will be highly favorable.

An Innocent Man Suffered.

After serving two years of a five years' sentence for burglary, at Trenton, N. J., George Drew's innocence has just been established, and application for a pardon will be made at the next meeting of the Pardon Board. The house of Druggist Wilson was robbed, and Drew was arrested and convicted on the evidence of George Wood and James Finner, of Philadelphia. The last two named were arrested last week, charged with a murder in Maryland, and they then confessed that they had themselves committed the robbery and put up the job on Drew, because he was too intimate with one of their female acquaintances at Philadelphia.

ROBERT WILSON, his seven year-old son, John Mackie and a stranger attempted to cross the old Cass River ford north of Vassar, Michigan, on Monday in a lumber wagon. When about the centre of the river the water carried the wagon box down the stream and Mackie and the boy were drowned.

Flood and Fire.

OIL CITY, Pa., June 6.—Flood and fire have laid waste a large section of this city, a fearful loss of life has resulted. The wildest stories of its magnitude are afloat. It is claimed that 50 persons have been burned or drowned in this city, and the number may exceed 100. A territory of at least 40 acres, being a narrow strip along Oil creek, is burned or flooded or both. It addition to those dead a large number are injured and probably a thousand are homeless. The fire started in this city at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning with an explosion of naptha and oil on the surface of Oil Creek, which was at a fearful height.

The entire upper end of Oil City on both sides of the creek was under water at the time of the explosion which caused the awful conflagration.

It consists of four principal parts. The south side is on the opposite side of the Allegheny river and was at no time in danger. In the acute angle formed by the confluence of Oil creek and the Allegheny river lies the business section of the city, and across Oil creek and on down the west bank of the Allegheny is the Third ward, which is the district entirely burned.

A thick coating of oil, presumably from the bursted tanks at Titusville, covered the surface of the creek. Floating along were three tanks of naptha. The sun was shining hot and caused a vapor of oil fumes to rise from the wide surface of the creek. The several thousand people who were watching the mad torrent seemed to simultaneously recognize their peril, and just as they began to move, the calamity came.

It is believed that a spark from an engine on the Western New York & Pennsylvania railroad ignited the flames, which could be seen plainly dazzling in the air about 20 feet above the surging water. Eye witnesses say that sheets of flame and volumes of smoke shot upward to a height of 100 feet in the vicinity of a bridge crossing Oil creek, 500 yards above the junction with the river.

In two minutes the fire had spread up and down the stream for over two miles. In less than ten minutes between two and three hundred buildings were in flames. The thousand of witnesses were thrown into a state of the wildest panic. Men, women and children ran through the streets screaming and beseeching each other to be conducted to a place of safety.

Clouds of smoke obscured everything. When the darkness was most dense, three frightful explosions in succession shook the very earth. These were the floating naphtha tanks in the creek. The cause was not then known, and a feeling that some horribly uncertain fate was impending added to the other terrors. It was then evident that the whole of the Third ward and a large number of buildings on both sides of the creek further up were doomed. Lower down where the buildings were above the water's surface, the fire was swept directly in among them.

Many of the persons who lost their lives were overtaken in the streets as they fled for safety. An almost perpendicular wall of stone hemmed the victims in on one side, the river on the other, the devouring flames at their rear. Others were burned in their houses and many were drowned.

One rescuing party with a large skiff load of persons taken from flooded houses, was overtaken by the blazing oil and all perished. Four of a party who stood on the Western New York & Pennsylvania railroad bridge are known to be dead.

Bodies are being unearthed literally torn from masses of debris made solid by the flood. Out in the middle of Seneca street parties of men are coming and going with stretchers between them weighted down with disfigured bodies. They return from the morgues immediately expecting to find more dead bodies.

In somo places three feet or more of mud covers the streets. The sidewalks are torn from their foundations and piled in confusion.

Disaster at Titusville.

TITUSVILLE, June 6.—Never in the history of Titusville has such a scene of desolation presented itself as was unfolded to the gaze this morning. As I entered the main thoroughfare, the first sight witnessed was four men carrying the dead body of a man on a stretcher. Within fifteen minutes the sight became so common that it ceased to occasion a surprise.

At the present writing it is estimated that fully one hundred persons have been either drowned or burned to death.

The money lost will run from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

An idea of the extent of the territory covered by the flood and fire can be obtained when it is stated that over two miles were destroyed. This includes railroads, factories, refineries, private dwellings, etc.

Mr. George Stephens, a prominent merchant here, says the fire was caused by a spark from a passing train on the W., N. Y. & P. R. R., which set fire to oil in a tank alongside the line. The water had reached an unusual height, and as it flowed across the low lying land set fire to every building with which it came in contact.

Mechanic street is known as a resident street for the poorer classes, and it was simply swept out of existence. Not a vestige of a dwelling on that street remains standing. This is where the greatest loss of life occurred. The fire and flood combined was so swift in its destruction that whole families were swept away before they realized that there was the remotest danger.

Horribly Mutilated.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 7.— While County Sueveyor Charles W. Wentzel, who had charge of an attraction known as a sham battle at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon, was engaged in loading one of the large cannons, an explosion occurred and Wentzel received the force of the discharge. His abdomen was ripped open and the intestines dropped on the grass. Part of his face was blown off, an arm mutilated, and one side of the body badly scorched. He lived only a few minutes. The belief is that either the cannon was still hot from the previous discharge, or a bit of the burning cotton waste was in the cannon, which cuased the discharge.

If Blaine succeeds in depriving Harrison of the nomination it will be at a fearful expense to the party, if he succeeds in getting it for himself it will be at the expense of honor, dignity and strength.

NEWS AND OTHER NOTINGS.

—One-third of a tree in Simon Mutchler's orchard, near York, Pa., is pink with peach blossoms, a third is bearing apple blossoms, and the remainder grows good pears.

—A German living at Pottstown, Pa., ate one dozen angle worms on a wager recently. He says he learned to eat them when a lad, and that they are as palatable as raw oysters, especially when eaten with vinegar, pepper, and salt.

—Alexander Myers, of Philadelphia, has been jailed at May's Landing for bigamy. Wives No. 1. and 2 have joined hands to punish him, and it is now said there are several other young women who claim to have been married to him.

—A naturalist says the scarab, or beetle, of Egypt, was the "tumble-bug," which forms a ball for laying its eggs in. Two individuals, male and female, always roll the ball together, and they do this merely for the purpose of conveying it to a safe place and hiding it.

—"Joe" Tichen, aged nine years, and Cassimir Tichen, aged sixteen, ascended a tree at Scranton, Pa., on Thursday evening to rob a bird's nest. While in the tree lightning struck it and Joe was killed. Cassimir was stunned, his clothing caught fire and he was burned so badly that he will die.

—That the world was inhabited long before authentic history began is now one of the generally accepted facts. There are said to be more than 3,000 prehistoric buildings in Sardinia. They are almost all in the fertile districts and are built in groups which are separated from one another by wide and generally barran places.

—The bustling camp of Jimtown, Colorado which is separate from the famous mining town of Creede by a mile and a half, was almost totally destroyed by a fire which started at 2:30 o'clock an Sunday morning. The flames were started by an explosion of coal oil, with which a family in the Kinneavey block were starting a fire to prepare breakfast.

—There was a meeting of the iron and steel workers in Homestead on Saturday, at which fully 2,000 were in attendance. The 40 percent. reduction at the works of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. was the matter under discussion. The matter is in the hands of a committee, but the general impression is that there will be a strike rather than submit to a reduction of wages.

—MRS. M. KAVEY, a widow living alone in South Niles, Ohio, was awakened at 2 A. M. on Tuesday by four masked men, who demanded her money. They secured $8, then choked and beat her in a terrible manner to make her disolose the hiding place of more. They tore up the bed, carpets and furniture, but found nothing further. They left her in a dying condition.

—Miss Minnie Stough, of this place, is in Easton this week representing the Ladies Aid Society.

—Mrs. Ellen Williams, of Carrolltown, spent a couple of days in Ebensburg this week visiting friends.

—The South Fork Courier is out in a new dress and looks as pretty as a young miss with a new bonnet.

—Two revolvers and ten dollars in money were taken from the freight house at Cresson, on Sunday night.

—On Monday night council fixed the tax rate for Ebensburg borough as follows: Borough, 4½ mills; special, 2 mills.

—Lightning struck the electric wires in this place on Sunday night, but as far as we can learn, no material damage was done.

—Mr. E. B. Cresswell, of this place, moved his family to Strongstown on Thursday of last week where they will spend the summer.

—The Directors of the Cambria & Clearfield railroad passed over it on Friday last from Kaylors to Hastings on a tour of inspection.

—Ollery Lefler, of Jackson township, dropped dead from heart disease at his home on Saturday last. He was about 70 years of age.

—Rev. T. R. Jones, of Windham, Ohio, formerly pastor of the Congregational church in this place, is in town visiting his old friends.

—Richard Launtz, and old and trusted engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, died at his home in Johnstown on Thursday, aged about 50 years.

—Hiram D. Dougherty, an uncle of the wife of Burgess Young, of this place, was one of the victims of the Oil City disaster. Mr. Dougherty was burned up.

—Mr. F. W. Davis, of this place, who is along with the engineer corps surveying in this neighborhood, gave his knee a severe cut with an ax on Tuesday.

—A picnic for the benefit of St. Bartholomew's Catholic church at Wilmore, will be held on the Fourth of July, at the old camp meeting ground near that place.

—Col. John M. Bowman, of Everett, Pa., an old-time resident of Johnstown, where he was proprietor of the Tribune for a number of years, was in town on Saturday.

—Our neighbor the Mountaineer is away off when he intimates that the Court House and Jail built in 1810 "are within the memory of all who are 20 years of age."

—William R. Humphries and Miss Cassie Davis, both of Ebensburg, were married at the residence of the brides father, Mr. Thomas J. Davis, on Wednesday, June 8th, 1892, by Rev. Bowman, of this place.

—On Monday evening Court-crier H. J. Crouse, Democrat, was given the grand bounce and E. J. Humphreys, Republican, was appointed crier in his stead. The Republicans are getting down to business in this county.

—The Normal boys have organized a football team and are ready to receive challenges from any teams in the county, outside of Johnstown. Challenges should be sent to the Secretary, W. G. Giffin, Ebensburg, Pa.

—Hon. James J. Thomas, of Carroll township, accompanied by his wife is in Greencastle, Pa., this week. Mr. Thomas is a member of the State Board of Agriculture, and the Board has a meeting at that place this week.

—Shortly after noon on Thursday a flash of lightning took a spin on one of the wires enteringing the store of Messrs. J. B. Lucas & Co., of this place, but beyond burning the wire in two and blacking a portion of the ceiling, no damage was done.

—Henry Lenting, of Johnstown, a German aged about forty jumped off the Railroad street bridge into the Conemaugh on Tuesday night with the intention of committing suicide. He was rescued however, and taken to the police station.

—On Tuesday John Simley an Italian, was brought to jail from Summerhill, charged with stabbing John Long, better known as "Yohanna" Long, of that place, on Monday evening. Long is in a critical condition and it is hardly possible for him to recover.

—Last week H. A. Shoemaker Esq., proprietor of the Ebensburg foundry, sold Prothonotary Darby a fine new buggy of the Waterloo make. These buggies cannot be excelled and those in need of a new buggy will find just what they want by calling on Mr. Shoemaker.

—A communication received from a Loretto correspondent relative to the game of ball played in Loretto last week, says "that but five players from Ebensburg took part, three on one side and two on the other and that three innings were played when the game broke up.

—Among the curiosities in the Sheriff's office described by the Mountaineer this week is "a large brass water-cock with which Mike Moore struck Sheriff Bonacker." As Mike Moore never "struck Sheriff Bonacker" with a brass water-cock of anything else, our neighbor had better take another guess.

—On Wednesday afternoon of last week lightning struck nine buildings in Gallitzin and Tunnelhill, but in no instance doing any great amount of damage. The house occupied by Mrs. Ed. Dougherty, formerly of this place, was among the number, as was also the livery stable of Andrew Hileman, a former resident of Ebensburg.

—William Leighty, an old and respected resident of Ebensburg, died on Monday, June 6th, 1892, aged about 70 years. He is survived by his wife and eight children, namely: George, Willie, Minerva and May, who reside at home; Millard and John, of Iowa; Mrs. Gertrude Root, of Altoona, and Mrs. Finkbiner, of Michigan. Mrs. Isaac Davis, was also a daughter.

—The jury trying the case of "General Sieger" Miller, for the murder of William Hostettler in Somerset county, on Friday morning after being out all night returned a verdict of "guilty of murder in the second degree." In the case of his son Robert Miller, who was placed on trial for complicity in the murder, the prisoner with the consent of the District Attorney plead guilty to manslaughter. The prisoners have not yet been sentenced.

—We are in receipt of a communication from Chest Springs, describing the series held at that place and St. Augustine on Memorial day, but the election table, court proceedings and the Spangler boom have crowded it out after having it set up in type.

—Mrs. Mary Williams, the oldest resident of Ebensburg, died at her home in this place on Saturday, June 5th, in the 87th year of her age. The deceased was the wife of the late John Williams, Esq., who died in this place, in 1877, and was an aunt of Messrs. C. T. Roberts, R. R. Davis, Mrs. H. P. Lloyd and Miss Sill Jones, of this place. Her remains were interred in Lloyd's cemetery on Tuesday.

—On Tuesday evening while Mr. Daniel Carney, of Cambria township, was driving home from where he had been working on the township road leading from Ebensburg to Elig's mill, his son Willie, aged about 10 years, was jolted off and the hind wheel of the wagon passed over his breast. It was at first thought that the was fatally injured, but the little fellow rallied and the doctor in attendance thinks there is every prospect for his recovery. There were several heavy planks on the wagon intended for repairing a bridge and several men, but the boy fell off so close to the wheel that it was impossible to stop until he was run over.

—The wife of one of our subscribers writes giving us "Hail Columbia" for putting her name in the cases for court published last week, when as she says the case was settled. As no case is "settled" after it is returned to court until leave of court is given after court is called, the case was not "settled" until Monday, and we had no means of knowing of the settlement until the District Attorney, on leave of court given, marked the case settled. We published the case as it appeared on the record with all the others, and if there was any wrong done it must be attributed to the manner the laws of this Commonwealth have provided for doing business in our courts.

—H. C. Reed, of near Strongstown, Indiana county, reached this place on Tuesday evening with two horses which he had charge of, intending to take them to some place in Huntingdon county. Licensed hotels are unknown in Indiana county, and Mr. Reed had been accustomed to getting his liquor with his friends in small quantities, staying by it until the supply was exhausted and thus getting his share. He invested in two half pint bottles, filled with "bug juice" carefully balanced them one in each side pocket and then proceeded to fill up. On Wednesday morning he was full to the brim and with his two half pints untouched started on his way. He fell off twice before he had gotten three squares but was helped on again and when last seen was headed toward Strongstown, the place of beginning, and will likely take a fresh start at some future time.

Lightning on the Rampage.

On Thursday night of last week lightning struck the stable of Mr. O. O. Phillips, on Julian street, this place, but with the exception of knocking a few shingles off the roof did but little damage.

The new barn of Mr. Levi Weaver, on the Scalp Level road, about a mile and a half beyond Geistown, was struck by lightning on Thursday night of last week about eleven o'clock and totally destroyed, together with a lot of new harness, top buggy, hay, etc. Mr. Weaver succeeded in getting his stock out, although he and the last animal getting out were considerably scorched by the heat. The loss has not yet been learned. It is understood there was an insurance of $500 on the barn.

The house of Mr. Frank Gurley, in the West ward of Ebensburg, near the station, in the occupancy of Rev. E. E. Manley, pastor of the Christian Church in this place, was struck by lightning on Sunday night. The lightning struck the comb of the roof, run down along a rafter, tore off the spouting and then down the back kitchen where it followed the door post, tore four holes in a wire door screen and shattered the post. The family were badly frightened but luckily escaped injury.

On Sunday night lightning struck a fence stake on the farm of Elijah Marsh, one mile East of Ebensburg, and running down the stake killed one sheep and four lambs out of a flock of forty that were lying near the fence.

A Gang of Counterfeiters.

Detective Robinson, of the Pittsburg force, and M. M. Mulhall, of the United States secret service took J. H. Pringle, Conrad Myer and John Barnett to Pittsburg on Saturday evening and placed them in jail for a hearing on the charge of counterfeiting. They are all from Summerhill, Barnett, who is well know to the secret service officials, is a famous counterfeiter. They are supposed to be a part of the gang which have been flooding the mountain towns with spurious coins. They confessed to making and circulating 13 silver dollars from antimony, block tin and glass.

The breaking up of the gang was brought about through the Pittsburg police department. Detective Robinson had been detailed by Inspector McKelvey to work up a case of robbery at Summerhill. In doing so he got into the confidence of the parties when he found he had fallen in with counterfeiters. He sent word to Detective Mulhall, of the secret service, who communicated with him at once. In the meantime Pringle proposed a safe robbery, when Robinson said he had a pal in Pittsburg who was an expert in this line. Mulhall answerd this summons and joined the gang. On Friday night the arrests were made with the result stated.

Spring Fever.

The gradual opening of the budding trees and the shooting upwards of the blades of grass are signs of the advent of spring. The farmer is already at work stimulating the growth of his crop by fertilizers to insure a rich harvest. Nature needs stimulation and why should not man? The system needs building up after the attacks of grippe and cold, and the only tonic is pure whiskey. Max Klein, of Allegheny, Pa., has the endorsement of eminent physicians, certifying to the purity of his famous Silver Age and Duquesne Rye Whiskies. Sold everywhere at $1.50 and $1.25 per full quart. Six-year-old Penna. Rye Whiskies, absolutely pure, at $1.00 per quart or six quarts for $5.00. SPANGLER!

COMING COAL TOWN OF WESTERN PA.

ELEVEN BIG COAL COMPANIES, WITH $1,500,000.00 CAPITAL, CONCENTRATE THEIR BUSINESS AT SPANGLER.

EMPLOYMENT FOR 2,000 MINERS IN THE NEAR FUTURE!

THIRTY THOUSAND ACRES OF THE FINEST COAL LAND IN THE STATE TO BE OPENED UP AT ONCE.

$2,000,000.00 Expended on Railroads to Develop the New Field.

The New Town Opened on June 14 for the Sale of Lots.

LOCATION.

The town of Spangler is a new enterprise started in Susquehanna township, Cambria county, on the headwaters of the Susquehanna, five miles from Hastings, on the Cambria and Clearfield Railroad, being built from Cresson to Spangler and to be operated by the P. R. R. It is a regular net-work of roads intended to reach all the coal fields of Northern Cambria county, among which Spangler will be the largest and most important. It is at the foot of a grade where the trains will be made up. It is surrounded by a most excellent farm country.

COAL COMPANIES.

The following coal companies are interested in the development of this region and have invested their capital in the coal lands at Spangler.

Blubaker Coal Company, capital $500,000, with General James A. Beaver as President, and Robert H. Coleman, of Lebanon, General Hastings and Colonel Spangler of Bellefonte as stockholders. This company owns about 12,000 acres.

Sterling Coal Company, with a capital of $200,000, with General Hastings as president and Philadelphia and New York gentlemen as stockholders. This company has a very large trade in the east and large mines at Hastings owning 500 cars of their own.

Cambria Coal Company, with Colonel Campbell, of Altoona; David Williams, Brinton Roberts, and other gentlemen from Philadelphia, as stockholders, have made a large purchase within one mile of Spangler and have commenced operations. The same gentlemen are operating mines at Glen Campbell and Philipsburg.

The Walnut Run Coal Company is a new company with a capital of $250,000, having such well-known business men as Hon. E. A. Bigler, Senator Betts, W. D. Bigler and J. F. Weaver, from Clearfield, as its principal stockholders. This company controls nearly four thousand acres of most valuable coal lands.

Lambirth, Scott & Co. have started an operation within a half mile of the new town on lands of the Blubaker Coal Company, and expect to ship a large amount of coal on the new road. This firm is largely interested in mines near Portage and has a most excellent and valuable trade.

The Broad Top and Cambria Coal Company will commence operations at once near Spangler, and will do a big business. It contains some of the best and brightest men in the State.

The Carbon Oil Company has made a start right in the town, and will be ready to ship as soon as the new road is completed.

Barnes & Company, of Philipsburg, will have a splendid operation at Spangler, with every indication of a big out-put. This is a well-established coal firm, and has large interests at Philipsburg.

Other parties are mining in this busy section, and the prospects for a large out-put and big tonnage are unmistakable. As these various interests centre at Spangler, there is no doubt that this next to Johnstown, make the biggest and most active settlement in Cambria county.

MINERS EMPLOYED.

When the operations are fully developed there will be employment furnished to at least 2,000 miners in a very short time. This means other labor in and about the mines of an additional 1,000 men. This will bring a population of many thousands for Spangler, which will have to be fed, clothed, sheltered, etc.

WATER.

There is most excellent water along the new town, which will be conducted in iron pipes throughout the town by the Spangler Water Company. There is no purer water in the state.

THE OUTLOOK.

For business of all kinds such as hotels, stores, shops, bakers, butchers, tailors, mechanics, workmen, etc., there is no better outlook anywhere. So far as is known none of these companies intend to own or control, directly or indirectly, company stores. Hence this kind of trade will then be opened for competition. The well-known Sterling Coal Co. now employing 600 miners at Hastings, will have three large operations at Spangler, and will employ the largest number of miners. This concern has never owned or controlled a company store. The miners at Hastings in the employment of that company are paid cash every two weeks, and no money is stopped in the office for any purpose whatever. This is the best guarantee of what the policy will be at the new town.

We strongly recommend all parties wishing to seek a good investment to examine the new enterprise and the opportunities there offered.

The sale of lots will begin on Tuesday, June 14, with every prospect of a great rush.

Charles Thomas Drowned.

On Saturday morning about half past ten o'clock some lumbermen were getting off a splash an the dam of Mr. Jacob Thomas, on the Chest creek between Chest and Elder townships. Two sons of Mr. Thomas, Theodore and Charles, both young men, the former twenty-two and the latter twenty years of age were raising the sluice when they both fell in. Both the brothers grasped a pole that was above them in the hope that assistance would soon reach them, but before it got there some drift wood came floating through the swift running water and striking Charles, broke his hold and carried him through the gate down the creek. Theodore succeeding in getting out. Charles was seen after going through the gate and the men ran down along the creek in the hope that they could rescue him but he soon disappeared. The search was kept up for several hours and about one o'clock, Theodore who had joined in the search found the body of his brother in a deep hole near the bridge, not far from his father's house. His remains were interred in the cemetery at St. Boniface on Monday.

—Miss Sarah Catharine O'Hara, daughter of Mr. William O'Hara, of Munster township, died suddenly at the house of her brother Terrence O'Harra, in the same township, on Wednesday of last week aged about 35 years. Her brother who runs a dairy had gone to Cresson and left her at home. On his return he discovered his sister near the house dead. She had evidently started for a bucket of coal and while on her way to the coal house was seized with heart disease. Her remains were interred at Loretto on Friday.

Miscellaneous Notices.

EBENSBURG MARBLE AND GRANITE Works, as sketched by a special reporter of the Johnstown Daily Herald.—Reliable dealers and fine goods.

"During a recent flying trip to Ebensburg the writer of this article visited the Marble and Granite Works of Jas. Wilkinson & Son, which were founded in 1880. The senior member of this progressive firm has had an experience of thirty-five years, and his son and partner is also a skilled worker. The class of work they produce is of the highest class and style. From four to five hands are employed and the very finest monuments in the county seat are specimens of their skill. Shipments are made through this and to adjoining counties.

"All kinds of cemetery work is executed and a fine line of Iron Railing is handled and sold. The stock of work kept on hand (received by the car-load) is very extensive and many very fine monuments are exhibited, two especially being executed in the rustic style and in imitation of brickwork, with a finely executed cross on the top. Among the many fine monuments erected by this firm is an eight-ton fifteen-foot-high monument for Sheriff Griffith, monument for Father Christy (sixteen feet high), also monuments for Jacob Kibler and daughter of John Griffith. Both gentlemen give personal attention to business as well as executing the finest work. In all the time they have been in business they have adhered strictly to the maxim all goods just as represented and prices as low as the same class of work can be bought elsewhere. We have no hesitancy in recommending Messrs. Wilkinson & Son to our readers as reliable business men, progressive and trustworthy. Visit their establishment before ordering elsewhere."

STUDY OF THE FACE.

Traits of Character Indicated by the Features.

Peculiarities of Human Nature Easily Discerned by Systematic Observation—Different Types Denoted by Facial Indications.

"Phrenology is an exploded delusion," said an anthropologist to a Washington Star writer. "No sensible person any longer believes that it is possible to determine anybody's character or mental faculties by bumps on the head. But the study of the features of the face is progressing so far that before long it will be regarded as a science. Certain traits, moral and intellectual, are plainly reflected in the countenance. Thus we are every commonly able to distinguish an ill-tempered individual. Necessarily, the emotional nature is expressed most clearly by the mouth, which is altered by the operation of the muscles with every change of feeling. In the eye, on the other hand, is found the expression of thought. The boxer or fencer looks not at the weapon of his adversary, but at his opponent's eye, in order to see how the blow or thrust is coming. One easily distinguishes the crafty from the benevolent eye.

"There are only crude distinctions, such as everyone perceives instinctively and without having made any study of the subject. But it is possible to go very far beyond this by systematic observation. There are certain peculiarities of physiognomy which stamp the person who is not trustworthy, and the eye and countenance in the faces of criminals. Often they are unmistakable by marked abnormalities. It has already been ascertained that criminals usually have peculiarly shaped heads, but that is a subject too complex to go into briefly. Look over the photographs in a rogues' gallery and you will discover that, without any experience in such matters, you are able to pick out with accuracy the burglars and the sneak-thieves, or pickpockets, distinguishing one class from the other. They represent palpably different criminal types.

"The police detectives in a city have no difficulty on a rainy day, when the streets are thronged, in going through the crowds and picking out the suspicious looking characters that are to be found everywhere and who are present for no good purpose. The types I speak of are unmistakable. They are difficult to analyze, but certain bone lines are characteristic of each. In the thief there is a suggestion of the fox in the burglar some of the wolf, and so on. Composite photographs of criminals show these traits in the most pronounced way. Strange to say, however, such portraits do not, as a rule, betray or thirty robbers or murderers—additions ate the evil that is developed upon the individual by social pressure. The study of physiognomy is calculated to do much good in the world.

"Any one is capable, however, with a little practice, of correct observation in this matter. It can be learned by scientific treatment, as I have mentioned, but even without this preparation. An instinct is conferred by the old-fashioned Dr. Mackey, of fragrant memory, that every man, woman and child is endowed with. The most of us, however, naturally suppress it. How far are such individuals capable for their actions? The influence of answer will rest, he says, with every one's own profession. A soldier is compelled to wage perpetual war against them. One who is closely the tool of business must be on the watch to scrutinize them in order to keep out of their way. Where there is only one man in a million who we permit to influence us, we are liberty to say that there are many times that many. There was once a time when a certain kind of criminal was considered in England almost a virtue. Men and women were executed for petty crimes that a person of the present day would be ashamed to mention. Even the hangman of Newgate, who was himself executed, was proud of his profession. Before he died he said that he had been supposed upon a little."

"Check by long habit in the features of the face much can hardly be a more useful as well as interesting study than that of the human physiognomy. How desirable it would be if we could choose our friends for the qualities we most admire, for the moral graces which their countenances express, instead from a reasonably exact scientific standpoint. There are plenty of people now in the higher walks of life who have criminal impulses which they do not act upon merely because there is no necessity which calls them into action. For example, there is a young man of my acquaintance who is born sneak thief. I can read in his face as well as if it were written across his forehead that he had the good fortune to be born in a rich family and so he has never had any occasion to steal anything, that I should not like to trust him ignorantly as a friend. Every now and then you read in the newspapers of rich women who have been caught shoplifting. It simply means that their criminal impulses have got the better of them. To use my word for it, the noblest family of mankind is man, as Pope says, and if we would really know people as they are we cannot do better than to study their moral and mental attributes in their features."

A DISGUSTED DUDE.

He Was So Mad at the Captain That He Said "Rats."

I saw a gentleman from Washington a day or two ago and began talking with him about my friend Capt. Meredith, chief of the bureau of printing and engraving, writes Jack Fuller in the Chicago Press. The gentleman told a little story on the captain. It appears he went one day into the Rabbit house barber shop to get shaved. While the artist was at work on his face some young snip of a clerk, rather on the dude order, came in and nodding familiarly to the captain's workman said: "Say, be lively there, Tom, and work that off, I am in a hurry." The barber was too cunning to reply, but the captain was conscious of a certain acceleration in the operation. He cautioned the artist to go slow and thus admonished the work was done more carefully. When the shaving was finished the young dude got up and prepared himself for the chair, but when he heard the captain say "cut my hair" he scowled and taking up a paper sat down again. The operation was at last over, and the captain, watching the dude in the mirror, saw his face light up as he saw his chance at length arrive. But it hadn't come yet, for with the utmost unconcern the captain said: "Now a shampoo." The face of the dude was a picture for a moment. In it was rage, disgust and chagrin. He gave one look at the undisturbed chief, a look that might have annihilated him, and turning to put on his collar and coat blued out, rather than spoke the single but expressive word: "Rats!" as he went out and banged the door. As the captain got up and paid his check he said: "If there is anything I don't like it is to have a barber hurried up by anyone when he is shaving me."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power to cure for all diseases of the blood.

The Harpooner's Story.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five sailors of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were blotched, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our limejuice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other remedy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Owing to my attention to your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you would be glad to know of this, and so send you the facts.

Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.

Mentor, Bandolene & Arroyo, Mexico, Jan. 25, 1881.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure in testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a long period, what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made the sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.

Yours truly, T. K. BIGGS,

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

ODD TRICKS OF MONKEYS.

They Keep Up the Interest of Those Who Care for Them.

"We lose interest in nearly all the animals," said the keeper to a New York Tribune man, "after we have had them awhile, except in the monkeys. The oldest keeper in the show will stop now and then to laugh at their antics. They're always inventing new tricks to play on one another. Their intelligence is wonderful and they show traces of conscience now and then. That big ape by himself over there came to Mr. Barnum with a story which I have no doubt is true. He was trained when we got him to do certain tricks by a wandering peddler who owned him in the east. The ape is an expert thief and one day he was going through his antics in a bazar where a fruit merchant had a bag of dates open on the ground. The ape wanted some of those dates. He was too shy to look at them, but in his tumblings he worked over toward them. Pretty soon he got into a position where the bag was between him and the merchant, who was squatting cross-legged on a mat upon the ground. With a leap the ape cleared the bag and came down between it and the merchant, close to the latter's face. Then he began to grow and mouth and scream at the man, showing his formidable teeth, staring him out of countenance, and making as if to attack him. The merchant was so astonished that he did not notice the ape helping himself to dates with his hind hands; apes are not four-footed, you know, they are quadrumana, four-handed. Having taken all he could hold, the ape quickly turned his back on the merchant, stuffed the dates into his mouth, and was off in a jiff. The reward was the theft and enjoyed it, and when they told the merchant he was so struck with the brute's eleverness that he showed no resentment. The ape, however, had got only a yard or so away in the crowd, when a boy, out of pure mischief, struck him with a whip from behind. The ape turned about like a flash, dashed between the very legs of the boy who had struck him, passed two or three others without looking at them, and flew at the unoffending merchant, biting him two or three times before he could be restrained. The old thief had conscience enough to know that he had done wrong, and as soon as he felt the blow he took it for granted that the man he had robbed was beginning to give him the drubbing he knew he deserved. Some of our monkeys are very fond of being petted and admired and others are not," continued the keeper. "That little one over there is as vain as any woman, and a curious thing in connection with her is that her vanity makes her a poor mother. The last litter she had we took away from her, a former one she killed by neglect, after she had hurt two or three of them badly by dropping them out in trying to be stroked and petted also, and, in so doing, pressed them too hard against the bars of her cage. She thought her babies more lovely than all the rest, probably, and she wanted them to get some of the admiration and attention which she enjoyed so much herself."

EARTH'S QUEER BLANKET.

It Is Made of Dust, and Protects Us From the Cold of Spaces.

We are apt to think of the dust that the air contains in greater or less quantities as simply an annoyance, and perhaps a source of disease; but the researches of John Aitken, the Scottish investigator, are beginning to reveal atmospheric dust to us in a new light. Mr. Aitkin has recently made known the results of his observations during 1880, which are supplementary to those made in 1880.

It appears that when the air is very thick and hazy it may contain floating dust particles to the number of from ten thousand to twenty thousand in every cubic centimeter, while a cubic centimeter of very clear air may contain only from a dozen up to a few hundred particles.

Mr. Aitkin's observations indicate that there is a relation between the quantity of dust and the temperature of the air. A great amount of dust, he thinks, increases the temperature in the daytime, and checks the fall of temperature at night.

The reason apparently is that the presence of dust serves as an obstruction to the free radiation of heat through the air. The sunbeams pass through very pure, clear air without lending much heat to it, and at night the heat received by the ground during the day readily escapes through the same air, but if the atmosphere is heavily laden with dust, the sun's rays are partially arrested by the particles which, becoming heated, in turn warm the air, and in like manner heat radiated from the earth at night is retained in the hazy layers of air in contact with its surface.

Without its atmosphere, says the Youth's Companion, which serves as a coverlet to protect it against the fearful cold of space, the surface of the earth would be frozen like that of the airless moon. But Mr. Aitken's researches seem to show that the beautiful atmospheric blanket wrapped round our planet varies in its power to retain heat in proportion to the amount of dust particles that it contains.

PARIS AND ITS DEAD.

An Establishment by Which Everyone Is Afforded a Decent Funeral.

In every great city the poor live by the worldly vanities of the rich. In Paris they die in the same way. It is the manufacture of innumerable superfluities which makes up the bulk of the industry of the working classes. The French capital has developed an ingenious system by which the poor are furnished with a free burial at the expense of the "pride, pomp and circumstance" which Dives considers his due on the road to the tomb, writes Edward R. Spearman in the Forum. One of the largest, best managed and most profitable industries in Paris is that of the Pompes Funebres, the gigantic monopoly which alone has the privilege of transporting the dead through the streets of Paris in funeral style. It possesses undertakers' material to the value of over four millions of francs, does some six millions a year of business, and turns over nearly two and a half millions of this as clear profit to its accredited owners, the church establishment of the city, after gratuitously and decently burying some three out of every five of the dead as indigent subjects.

Each country and each age have their own fashion of disposing of their dead, from the Patagonian who makes "lion meat" of his spouse back to the ancient Roman with his ancestral urns. Taken all in all, perhaps there is no more reasonable arrangement than that of the thrifty Parisian, who manages to have each disposal of the dead carried on "decently and in order" through the exploitation of a love of lavish display in a minor portion of the community. One sees nothing of the ghastly side of the undertakers' work in visiting the vast premises which have been recently devoted to the use of the Pompes Funebres, away out in the extreme northeast of Paris, in La Villette. There we found only "the trappings and the suits of woe," the materials for the funeral decorations and the funeral corteges. Take it altogether, a ramble over the establishment is one of the most interesting sights of the city

MORGANATIC MARRIAGES.

Princes and Princesses Who Have Married Persons of Lower Rank.

In connection with the sad death of Archduke Henry of Austria and his morganatic wife, the Paris Figaro gives a long list of the members of reigning houses who during the present century have made misalliances and married below their station. Grand Duke Constantine, who gave up his right to the throne in favor of his brother Nicholas I., of Russia, married, says the Figaro, a Polish woman named Mlle. Grudzenska; the Czar Alexander II., took for his second wife the Princess Dolgoruki, and King Victor Emmanuel married as his second wife Rosa Vercellana, later Countess di Mirafiori. "Don Ferdinand of Portugal," adds the journal, "married the actress, Elisa Ulsbert. Prince Alexander, of Battenburg, formerly prince of Bulgaria, now Count Hartenau, married the Darmstadt singer, Fraulein Loisinger. The duke of Leuchtenberg took the sister of Gen. Skobeleff to wife; Duke Nicholas, of Oldenburg, a Mlle. Boulatzel, and the duke's brother Constantine a Countess Zaverkine. Prince Charles, of Baden, married Baroness Rosalie Bont, and Duke Louis in Bavaria, Baroness Waldersee. The count of Bari, brother of King Francis II., of Naples, chose Mlle. de Mazzoley as a wife. The wife of the prince of Nassau is a daughter of the poet Pushkin, and the wife of Prince George, of Anhalt, is Countess Rena. Prince Erich, of Waldeck, is married to Baroness Pallaner, and Prince Henry, of Hesse, to Baroness Nikita. The duke of Cambridge's wife was Miss Farebrother, and Prince Oscar of Sweden, married Mlle. Ebba Munk, being now known as Prince Bernadotte. But princesses of the blood royal continues the journal, have also chosen husbands from other classes. Princess Louise, daughter of Queen Victoria, is married to the marquis of Lorne, a daughter of the prince of Wales to the duke of Fife, Princess Frederika, of Hanover, chose for her husband Baron Pauell-Rammingen, and the widowed duchess of Genoa is married to Marquis Rapallo."

FILIAL DEVOTION.

A Japanese Girl Who Shed Her Blood for Her Father.

A very touching but painful incident, illustrating the depth of ignorance and the wasted powers of self-abnegation which exist among Japanese women, has just been brought to light by the Kobe Mail. The story runs that a doctor named Toyoshima Sukkichi, fifty years of age, was attacked by some disease of the brain, and had been confined to bed since January 15. His daughter, Yone, aged sixteen, who was engaged as a servant in the house of a military officer, was deeply grieved by the illness of her father and his apparently hopeless condition.

She went barefooted day by day to Sakaiduji temple to pray, but all to no purpose. Her father continued as bad as before. At last one night an old man with snow-white hair appeared to her and told her that if she wished her father to get well she must give him a cup of blood from a girl sixteen years of age. On awaking she decided that she would carry out the old man's instructions.

She procured a sword from her master's house and went home, telling her parents about her dream and that she intended to give her father a cup of her blood. Her father, horrified at his daughter's conduct, took the sword from her and remonstrated with her. She returned to her work, but on the same night she cut her left arm in two places and carried the cup of blood to her father, imploring him to drink it.

The horrified parents sent for a doctor and had her wounds dressed and did their best to drive away her superstitious beliefs. This is, of course, only an exaggerated instance of the superstition and ignorance which leads to all the other sacrifices made by women for their parents in Japan.

INFORMATION FOR THIEVES.

How Some Men Unthinkingly Reveal Facts It Is Unsafe to Tell.

The head of one of the oldest and most important financial houses in Chicago said this one day lately with a great deal of emphasis:

"I much wish that our younger business men would exercise a keener appreciation of how injudicious it is to voluntarily appear in print by giving accurate information regarding such matters as the days on which their establishments have the most cash on hand, the mails in which they usually make their heaviest shipments of cash, and all that sort of thing. Only this week a young bank official did all of this and more. Not only did he name the days that the institution with which he is connected has the most cash on hand and makes its heaviest transfers of money to the post office express offices, but he gave the same information regarding two or three other institutions of a similar nature.

"There have been other cases where the same thing has been done by young men. It is seriously wrong, wholly and entirely unbusinesslike. To do so simply means the giving of valuable and otherwise wholly unattainable pointers to the highwaymen from whom we are hearing with such alarming frequency and in so serious a manner of late. Were an officer or employe connected with our institution to do anything of the kind he or I would immediately sever connection with that institution. The man guilty of doing such a thing, either wittingly or unwittingly, instantly forfeits all right to confidence. Such a man is either a fool or a knave, and neither should hold a position of trust. Most sincerely do I hope that our young men will be more on their guard as to this thing in the future."

FASHION'S FANCIES.

SOFA pillows are embroidered in gold.

TINY silver chairs have plush seats, and are used for pincushions.

SLEEVE buttons representing golden ears of corn are popular.

PALE yellow is one of the prettiest shades for evening dresses.

BODICES are still much trimmed, only a few perfectly plain ones being seen.

A SLIGHT drapery is usual on most skirts, just giving ease across the top of the front.

BOWS or ribbon, braid, lace, chiffon and large buttons are used as waist trimmings.

FASHION now equally favors two styles, the quite tight and the half-fitting jacket.

CRAPE-FINISHED china silk, in designs of stripes of a single color, or in contrast, is an inexpensive fabric for charming house dresses, tea-gowns and evening dresses.

TAILOR-MADE gowns should be made and pressed very nicely, in order to prove satisfactory, while the plain fitting basques are not so much worn as those with open fronts, that hang straight over a blouse-like vest.

A Tip for Anglers.

An angler can by carrying a little bran with him keep his fish quite fresh in appearance in any creel by simply sprinkling enough of it to adhere all over them when first caught. It is surprising how fresh a trout looks when the bran is washed off even after three or four days, and it is therefore one of the very best ways of packing fish to send a distance.
